Leadership Loudoun’s nine-month program develops current and emerging leaders in Loudoun County, Virginia, to work together to make a better community. Program participants meet once a month from September through May in a class of about 24 participants from the corporate, government, and non-profit sectors. Highlights of the program include understanding and developing leadership skills, investigating issues facing the community, and generating creative solutions through an interactive “think tank” activity. “For over 25 years, Leadership Loudoun has been the premier leadership development program for those who live or work in Loudoun County. The opportunity to grow in personal development, leadership skills, community awareness, and civic service is unrivaled,” Leadership Loudoun President Danny Davis said. “We hope you’ll join us in being part of the “Best Class Ever!”

Advance Leadership

From September to May, class members are introduced to leadership methodologies, and actively participate in designed program days that include a Think Tank component. The purpose of the Think Tank component is to drive experiential learning through application of a structured but fluid process that gathers a myriad of people with diverse expertise and encourages collaborative, creative examination of community issues.

Build Connections

Members learn about Loudoun County’s history, political structure and processes, and the current and projected economic climate facing our fast-growing county. They are introduced to the current leadership landscape in Loudoun County and given opportunities to interact with these leaders as they address relevant community topics in small groups.

Serve Community

Alumni are encouraged to take leadership roles and continue to engage in Loudoun County. In addition, the Leadership Loudoun organization and various graduate forums host networking events that promote strong connections among the various classes and build partnerships among our members’ organizations.
